My communication is about poor cities and lower-income areas on the outskirts. Persons who live in these cities must have roads and basic infrastructure to improve their living conditions and then they can reach the other social stratum step by step, and it's a honour for all !

At engineering school we don't learn how we made infrastructure in outskirts cities, but how we intervene in regular area !.

My experience in Tunisia as an engineer in public institution who operating in poor cities with preparing and executing projects on behalf of the state and local public collectivities .

The difficulties is how to connect the network of water, cleansing, roads of this outskirts cities to others network of regular cities ?

The most important thing is the coordination between the engineers and technical staffs of multitude companies whom have played a key role in the success of these operations .
